

Application Doctoral Studies

on Responsible Consumption and Production - RCP DS

Details

In the European University Alliance EURECA-PRO, nine partner universities co-operate for the advancement of education, science, and innovation on a European level in the area of Responsible Consumption and Production. It is their intention to contribute to Sustainable Development Goal (SDG 12) of the UN Agenda 2030. The partner universities are (alphabetically by country names): Montanuniversität Leoben (Austria), Hasselt University (Belgium), Université de Lorraine (France), Technische Universität Bergakademie Freiberg (Germany), Mittweida University of Applied Sciences (Germany), Technical University of Crete (Greece), Silesian University of Technology (Poland), University of Petrosani (Romania) and Universidad de León (Spain), .

The partner universities agree to establish an informal, legally non-binding doctoral studies (DS) as a common framework to develop doctoral research on Responsible Consumption and Production (RCP) in science and innovation.
